We would like to welcome Dr Khaled Darawil and his team to ENOS from Queen's hospital, Romford, part of Barking, Havering and Redbridge Hospitals NHS Trust. Queens is one of the busiest stroke units in London, with one of the highest numbers of stroke admissions in the capital. A total of 1,111 emergency admissions with a primary diagnosis of stroke, were admitted in the last financial year.

The 42 bedded unit comprises of 12 hyper acute and 30 rehab beds. Queen's Hospital's HASU (hyper acute stroke unit) was awarded the Stroke Association Prize for the most improved stroke service in the UK in June 2010. They have already recruited their first patient and we wish them the best of luck with their recruitment.

Tips of the month

- Please take care with your password, we are receiving a lot of queries to re-set passwords. We will shortly be introducing an automated system for doing this.
- Please be reminded that all of our SAE's are independently adjudicated online and therefore any investigational/diagnostic reports/results do not require faxing to us, apart from the death certificates of all deceased patients if you have them. However, we do need all of this supporting evidence to be entered onto the ENOS website in order that it can be adjudicated. Please ensure the type of test/examination, date and result/report summary are included in Section B: Diagnostic evidence, and please add any relevant comments to support the event that you are reporting on.

Time to randomisation

Please try to randomise patients early in the 48 hour window. We only have 10% of patients randomised in the first 12 hours. If the trial is to have a balanced result, we need to recruit at all time periods across the 48 hours.

Competition

We would like to encourage early recruitment within the 48 hour time window for ENOS, so we will be offering a prize to the centre recruiting the most patients within the first 24 hours in November. The prize will be a £250 conference fund to be used at the centre's discretion towards a conference of their choice towards travel, accommodation or registration.

We look forward to seeing increased earlier recruitment and to giving the prize to the successful centre.
